

After reading about Ronnie's life, I felt very sad to know that a young person who wanted to make a difference for his country and have his whole family look up to him had to leave this world in a flash. As I read the story a second time, I realized sometimes that the sole purpose of having good people put into this world for a short is to teach and inspire other people on how life is too short. Ronnie even at a young age had his little brother look up to him and he knew that his parents were proud of him and supported him throughout his life. Ronnie's parents made Ronnie who he was. I am graduation high school this year and looking back as far as I can remember my parents were and continue to be there for me even though I did not realize it. My mom, since I was little, always made me realize that education was important and follow your dreams. I have been a Girl Scout member since first grade and have done many community services. After reading Ronnie's background on all the things he did it makes me feel that I have accomplished a lot and it was worth it. I have to continue my dreams and inspire others just like Ronnie did and continues to do. I hope that one day my parents will be proud of me just like Ronnie's parents are. Gracie will also be proud of her dad when she is older and I know with the help of her mom she to will follow in dad's footsteps. I love my whole family and want to follow my dreams but in my path I will always try my hardest to inspire and encourage everyone to do good and every time I see a ladybug, I will always remember Ronnie's story.

Mr. Ron Gill, Sr and Rosemary Gill, whomever you pick to accept the scholarship, it will be honor for that recipient to accept it in Ronnie's memory.
